

Winterize Your Baby: Products to Combat Winter's Chill

November 28, 2011

The weather outside is frightful — but baby's skin can still be delightful! A tot's skin is about 10 times thinner than an adult's skin, making it much more sensitive to heat and cold. The winter months mean lots of outdoor fun, but that fun can lead to dry skin and hair, chapped lips, and at the extreme end of things, frostbite.

Check out the following selection of products that will infuse some much-needed moisture during the cold winter months.

Keep Lil Toes Dry

One of the many joys of Winter is playing outside in the snow. Stonz Booties are the perfect choice for keeping lil developing feet dry and comfortable. Made with water-resistant nylon, fleece lining, and rubberized soles, these sweet booties can be lined in the colder months for extra warmth.
