Keep tabs on your kids' online activities

Worried about what your kids are doing online? A new subscription service called SafetyWeb.com will take those worries away. The service helps to protect kids from common online dangers such as cyberbullying and public profiles. It monitors a child's online activities and immediately redflags for parents any and all potential threats to their child — and you don't even have to monitor every post. SafetyWeb.com scans the Internet for questionable activity, making parents aware of videos and photos their kids share publicly, cyberbullying, potential internet addiction, when privacy settings are changed on social networking sites and more. It also helps parents keep tabs on their child's mobile calls and text messages. Check it all out at www.SafetyWeb.com.

A carry-on with a difference

Now there's a new carry-on that offers more space, more storage and more functionality — all in one lightweight package. The EL100 Carry-On Wheeled Upright has a main compartment that expands for additional packing space, clothing hold-down straps and a zippered mesh pocket that keeps everything in its place. The special built-in, high-density foam structure maintains the bag's shape while minimizing weight. An upper front pocket is perfect for airline tickets or travel necessities, while a lower front pocket is designed for magazines and small travel gear. The retracted, telescoping lightweight aluminum handle system has a locking mechanism. Check this amazing travel carrier at www.hssc.com/product?number=EL100&long=en.

Booties for the cold weather

Keeping footwear on newborns to toddlers can be a problem during the cold winter months. Stonz Wear has come up with booties designed just for the outdoors. They have a fleece-lined inner and a coated nylon exterior. The booties also feature stylish appliques, soft soles for a custom fit, and toggles at both the ankle and toe to ensure they stay put. Check them out at www.stonzwear.com.
